

WELL, WELL! SEE HOW HIS KINGSHIP SQUATS
RIGHT DOWN ON THE FLOOR

It isn't every day you'll see a regular king squatting on the floor, like a jolly sailor lad and with his hat on the side of his head, but here we'll introduce King George of Greece plunked down on the floor of Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, Erin. Sir Thomas is sitting on the floor beside him. Standing, at left, is Princess Henry of Battenburg, King Edward's sister, and members of the Grecian royal family. The picture was taken just before the Erin sailed for Serbia.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

New York.—Vincent Astor motored over to quarters of Second naval battalion, naval reserve, last night and made formal application for enlistment in battalion's newly-organized serial corps.

New York.—Sporting circles were shocked today by news that Capt.

Leslie St. George Cheape, famous international polo star, is entered on casualty list published in London as missing.

Oxford, O.—200 western college girls won their strike for privilege of attending movie shows once a week and one dance per month at Miami university.